CCmath

CCmath b.v. is a software and consulting company that specializes in call center planning software. It is located in Amsterdam, and has strong connections with the Vrije Universiteit. We have a number of possibilities for internships related to the development of new products and planning modules.

One of the current possibilities is:
- Development of functionality in the forecasting tool to automatically predict the impact of future events (such as marketing campaigns or bill runs) based on historical data on similar events

Required: A student BA with strong analytical skills. Programming will be done in php and/or C++.

Applications: Wout Bakker, wout@ccmath.com