

Utopia

My Utopia will have the legal system different from what we have here and now. There will always be a fair trial, but there will be no more deals that lessen the punishment by too much. People of which it is proven that they committed, do not deserve a compromise too large for when they testify against themselves or a partner in crime.

Racism will be punished harder also. For a society to work and live in harmony this cannot exist. The same goes for extremist beliefs. There is no place for people who want to hurt others for the sake of religion. Religion is still present, but in a supporting, non-threatening way.

For economy there, each country/district will have its own valuta, which makes every household financially strong. This will ensure equal financial resources for everyone for food, healthcare, shelter and everything else that is needed for a fun, good and healthy life.

Politically there will be a government that does not differ between themselves and any other human in the country. If changes need to be made for the good of the people which ask for a sacrifice, be it financially, everyone will 'chip in' an equal percentage of their finances to support this.

Biologically, there will be more environmentally friendly solutions, like more efficient electricity generators within dams, to step away from fossil fuel usage, which harm the planet, plants, animals and our living environment.

Technology will have evolved in such a way that it is an integrated, invincible servant to people and improves life for everyone.
