

Utopia

I think that in a perfect world, people wonder how it looks like and what it spontaneously offers!

Utopia is a safe world that there is an end to the most foolish kind of war, which is the war between religions, the religious conflict. Where there is no war need to be conducted to drinking water, food or fuel. There is no hunger problem in the world. The nature and the environment are able to recover, at the time that humanity living together harmoniously. In Utopia the fear will disappear from the face of the earth, so that people live in peace, as helpful brothers. No more animals suffering, because we can grow steaks in the factory. No need for organ donors, because everyone has their own personal stem cell line. You will be Smarter, by stimulation of the brains with a magnetic helmet.

Every day, scientific revolution will be placed; discoveries today that decide the face of the world tomorrow.

According to Thomas More “This Utopia is probably too good to be true “, but I want to describe my Utopia that may come true using serious gaming.

In my Utopia there is no private ownership, everything is owned for everyone, there is no rules of ownership, and everybody can use serious games. There is no need for education investment or teachers because of e-learning environment of serious game. Since the new generation has experiences a radically new form of computer and video game play, children are interested to use Game-Based math learning instead of solving math tasks in the classroom. While there is no need for math course, they have more time to cooperate with each other and provide serious game.

In this ideal society there is no crime and unemployment problems for the integration of immigrant's. People will train how to integrate in the country, how to find job, and how to interact with the people in host-country using serious game.
